About the Artist

Hugh Cabot III (1930 - 2005), gained artistic fame at the age of 22 years having been appointed by the then President of the United States and Secretary of the Navy to serve as a combat artist for the Korean War.

Cabot, awarded the title of American Master Painter in 2006, is best known for his bold, powerful Western landscapes and highly distinctive portraits of the iconic cowboy. His love for the western frontier began at age 12 when he was sent from his hometown in Boston to visit western ranches. By age 14 he was obsessed with the Rodeo, horses and winning a Champion silver buckle. He spent over 20 years studying the way of life of the American Cowboy and perfected southwestern and frontier subjects as a painter, illustrator, and sculptor.

Cabot’s work can be seen in the Smithsonian, The Pentagon, Navy Art Gallery, Library of Congress and a museum ~ gallery named in his honor located in Tubac, Arizona where he spent the last thirty years of his life with his wife Olivia.
