About the Line

This collection was inspired by an interaction I had with a particular bird. This was a mother bird who had nested in a tree in my backyard and had babies in the nest. One day I had the back door open for a bit and the bird flew right into my house! Despite trying to free her, she spent the night perched on the light fixture in the living room. I heard her call to her babies all night. It was terribly sad. The next day I was finally able to capture and free her using my knit jacket. So relieved!! It felt so good to see her back with her babies in the nest! I decided to design a spring collection using pretty birds because of that experience. I hope you like it!
